

HP Indigo press s2000

The powerful digital printing solution for speciality applications

The HP Indigo press s2000 brings all the advantages of on demand, cost effective short-run digital production to the cards, screen and specialty markets. Now you can print on a wide variety of substrates that your competition can't handle, increasing your revenue stream. You also save the time and expense of conventional printing while taking full advantage of personalized printing capabilities.

New opportunities

- Realize a new world of business building opportunities – print premium graphic layers and overlays on items ranging from mouse pads, keypads and front panels to plastic cards for IDs, drivers licenses, health care and countless other applications.
- Print more for less – digital printing eliminates the expense of conventional offset screen printing by eliminating film, plates and make-ready for jobs as few as one.
- Nearly unlimited substrate choices – accept jobs for printing on optimized PVC, polyester, polycarbonate and many more.

Liquid ink quality

- Impress your most demanding customers – produce vibrant image quality with liquid HP ElectroInk while optional 5 and 6-color inking stations make it easy to print your customers' corporate colors without press downtime.
- Multiple finishing options yield high-quality pieces – printed substrates are compatible with post printing processes like lamination, embossing and other finishing processes.

Profitable short-runs and personalized printing

- Offer your customers affordable short-run printing – deliver true liquid ink offset quality printing for quantities as few as one.
- Customize print pieces to meet your customers' needs – every piece can be unique with HP Indigo's Yours Truly color personalization software.

HP Indigo presses combine the creative flexibility of digital printing with the quality of offset. This unique combination allows you to produce high quality printing and personalized marketing material – quickly, easily and profitably. All this, and the choice, support and ongoing commitment that comes with HP.
